Mental Health / Emotional Wellbeing Apps

Before you get started...

The apps found in this booklet are either featured in the NHS App library and / or young people have told our clinicians that they have found them personally helpful.

The list of apps should not be interpreted as approval by LPFT children and young people services or the NHS of those apps or information you may obtain from them.

The NHS has no control over the contents of those sites or resources. They have not been tested or assessed by the NHS. The apps have not been verified or approved by the NHS and we have no control over the content of the apps. The views expressed in the apps do not represent the NHS's views or values.

Apps found in the NHS App library are marked with this symbol.

Please visit their website on <https://www.nhs.uk/apps-library/category/mental-health/> for more information on how apps featured in the library are tested and assessed.

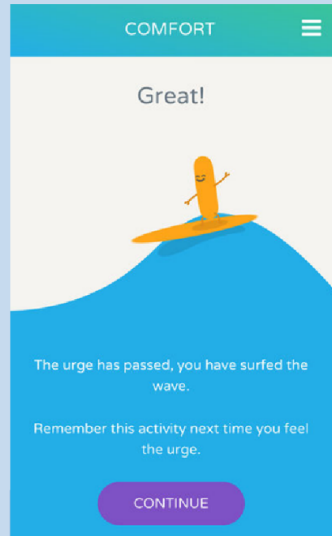

The app developer is solely responsible for their app's advertisement, compliance and fitness for purpose. Unless stated otherwise, apps are not supplied by the NHS, and the NHS is not liable for their use. If you wish to complain about any of the apps listed in this booklet, please contact the app developers.

Please also contact us at lpn-tr.CAMHSinvolvement@nhs.net to make us aware of the content which you are complaining about.

The list of apps is provided for general information only. It is not intended to amount to advice on which you should rely. You should speak to your clinician before taking or refraining from taking any action on the basis of the content of these apps.

Although the CAMHS service makes reasonable efforts to update the list of apps, we do not guarantee that the list is accurate, complete or up to date.
